GOALS

The Southwest Ohio Human Trafficking Conference harnesses the power of education, awareness, and professional training to unite stakeholders from across the state. Alongside esteemed experts such as Attorney General Dave Yost, the Montgomery County Sheriff, and survivor speakers, the conference creates a rare and vital platform where survivors can share their lived experiences. Through partnerships with businesses, organizations, and medical providers, we equip hundreds of attendees with the knowledge and tools needed to recognize, respond to, and advocate for survivors—turning awareness into impactful action.

Investing in education, training, and survivor support, business leaders play a vital role in building a safer, stronger future for our community.
